story of intrigue and marriage to day in the Supreme Court before Jus-Leventritt and a jury, Her suit session of a fund of $20,000 now in hands of the United States Trust Com-pany. The claim is really contested by her daughter, Georgette, now the wife of H. V. Nixon, of England, though the Trust Company and ex-Judge Leicester I. Holme are the formal defendants.

Mrs. Garrison's story unravels a curious snarl of love knots. Before it is finished it is credited, the presentative finished, it is predicted, the personality of many more men high in social and political life will be seen entangled in its woof and warp. George Lorillard and ex-Judge Holme already figure as one-time guardians of the lady's affections and fortune.

Didn't Know She Was Married. Mrs. Garrison was a Philadelphia girl. Her maiden name was Annie A. Rogers. She was beautiful and fascinating. She still retains those qualities in more mature form. When still in her teens she married Clarence Andrews, "But I never took it seriously," says

Garrison naively, "and did not . really know I was married." Not long afterward the marriage was annulled, ex-Judge Holme conserving the wife's interests. This was in 1876, and Miss Rogers, then but sixteeen years old, came to New York. Thereafter, until 1881, ex-Judge Holme and George Lorillard were her best friends. The child, Georgette, was born in 1878, and in the present suit it is as-serted that ex-Judge Holme was her

However, in 1885, after the plaintiff's marriage to George C. Garrison, George Lorillard paid his former friend $10,00 by check. She turned it over to Mr. lime to manage. The same year by Mr. Holme's advice, Mrs. Garrison saye, $20,000 of the sum was placed in trust for the daughter, Georgette, when she should become twenty-one, Mrs. Garri-

"Dear Annie: I send inclosed a letter received from Georgette. I trust you have had a merry Christmas and happy New Year. I see Georgette answers your inquiry as to why she does not address her letters to you instead of me by sayher letters to you instead of me by saying that I did not want her to.

"It is true I told the Sisters at the convent that I wished to see all of Georgette's correspondence. I wish her to write often to you but I do not want her to think there is any appeal from the authority of the convent.

"I hope in your letters to her you will not try to suggest to her that there is anything else ahead of her for two or three years than the convent. Your friend.

A Servant's Story.

Mary Hurley, who was employed by Mrs. Garrison in 1877 as maid and seamstress, was called, and testified that she knew her then as Mrs. Rogers. She was there when the child Georgette was born and had the care of her. She remained in Mrs. Garrison's employ until two years ago.

Judge Newburger in a measure sustained Mr. Osborne in his stand, and said botty that Mr. Moore had made a suggestion to the witness. Mrs. Kennedy was much agitated over the effort to discredit the witness's testimony.

Alfred J. Wagner was the first witness called to-day. He testified that he is a hack driver at St. George, Staten Island, and that he saw Dr. Kennedy when he arrived at Staten Island, and that he saw Dr. Kennedy when he arrived at Staten Island at 12.55 A. M., on Aug. 16, 1885.

Dr. Kennedy was intoxicated, the witness said.

Lawyer Moore at times suggested questions to the witness during the cross-examination. Mr. Osborne protected and Justice Newburger administered a sharp rebuke to Dr. Kennedy's lawyer.

"I did not suggest anything to the witness," said Lawyer Moore.

"Yes, you did make a suggestion," said Justice Newburger hotly, "for the lawyer adme.

It was one of the most interesting moments of the trial and Mr. Osborne was mercilessly inquisitive. He made the witness admit that he had never mentioned to any person that he had seen Kennedy when he went to visit a young lady at Tempkinsville.

IT SLUGS Even Harder than a Prize-Fighter.

A newspaper man is subject to trials and tribulations the same at ordinary mortals. Coffee "siugs" a great many of them.

D. Beidleman, on the Wilkesbarre Record, says, regarding his experience with coffee: "A little over two years ago I was on the verge of collapse, superinduced by the steady grind of the newspaper office. For weeks I did not have a night, sound sleep, and the wakeful nights were followed by despondency and a general breaking up of the constitution. I ran down in weight. My family physician insisted that I leave off coffee and take on Postum Food Coffee, but I would not hear to it. "One day I was served with a cur of coffee, as I supposed, that had a peculiarly delicious flavor. I relished it, and when drinking the second cur I was told that it was not coffee, his Postum Food Coffee, I was dumfound. ed, and for a time thought I was the subject of a practical joke. However I became a firm believer in and a user of Postum from that time, and almost immediately I began to sleer
